

You are invited to exhibit your artwork at the

6th Annual Celebrate the Faces of Sandhills Art Gala.

April 15, 2010 – April 18, 2010

This event includes an art sale (not an art auction) and is a great opportunity to exhibit and sell your work. Artwork will be exhibited on three separate occasions beginning on Thursday, April 15, 2010. Artwork will be sold on Friday, April 16, 2010 during the Art Gala and again on Sunday, April 18, 2010. Artists set the prices for their artwork and receive 60% of the sale. Sandhills School, serving as a gallery, receives 40%. Expect more than 400 people, as well as area interior designers, to view your artwork. We encourage artists to submit original artwork in a range of prices. Loyal patrons of this event are seeking fine pieces and will be invited to a special VIP showing prior to the gala. Artists receive two complimentary tickets to the event and are encouraged to attend. Over seventy local and regional artists participated this past year.

Sandhills School is a nationally recognized non-profit independent school serving students with diagnosed learning differences, primarily dyslexia and ADHD. Our students, all bright and capable children, struggled and had difficulty learning to read and write in traditional school settings. They arrive at Sandhills School from public, private and parochial schools and begin to excel when they join a community of students and teachers that understand their specific educational needs. Because our students think differently and learn differently, they are known to be very creative. The arts are an important component of our curriculum. The Sandhills School community works tirelessly to provide a wholesome, state of the art learning environment while working to provide scholarships as needed. Currently, the school provides classes first through tenth grades and serves students throughout the Midlands region.

For more information about the school, visit our website at www.sandhillsschool.org.
